

Council Holds Decision On Zoning Action At Fairfield

Members of Fairfield borough council have delayed action on further study of a zoning ordinance but adopted Phases one and two of the Comprehensive Plan involving subdivision and land development.

Larry Lahr, representing Nassaux - Hemsley, recommended that council continue to support the borough Planning Commission in its search for industries to locate in the area.

Council President Gary Bechtel urged members to consider needs of the borough in which revenue sharing funds can be used.

FIRE CO. SUPPORT

The matter of reducing the contribution to the Fairfield Community Fire Company was tabled until further information is received from the Hamilton-Township supervisors as to their intention regarding the $100 donation to the Fire Company.

Communications included an audit report received from the Fairfield Firemen's Relief Association. A questionnaire for each councilman to complete was received from the Capitol Region Survey.

Committee reports were given with discussion on the condition of the alleys. The president asked Councilman Scott, chairman of the streets and alley committee, to meet with his committee and arrive at a procedure to be followed in the repairing of the alleys as soon as possible. Councilmen will report at the next meeting.

The grate at the intersection of Main and South Spring Street will be replaced and Mayor James Landis, Jr., will proceed to contact Roy McGlaughlin in a effort to have the grate installed.

Mayor Landis reported that he had proclaimed the week of February 19 as Green Knight week due to the outstanding record of the basketball team of the Fairfield Area School.

Chief of Police Alphonsus Pecher reported spending 24 hours in the borough in the last two months.

The treasurer's report showed a balance in the general fund as of March 5 of $652.71. Balance in the Revenue Sharing account is $1,179.

Say Exer-Cor Ads False

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Health Department is warning consumers that an exercise device called "Exer-Cor" falsely claims it can treat ailments such as high blood pressure, arthritis and cerebral palsy.

The department Friday said medical literature provides no evidence that the device is effective in treating any of the conditions. It sells for about $150 and resembles a surfboard with sliding panels to permit a crawling action.

"The device does have a rather attractive appearance," said a department official. "However, in my judgement, you could get the same effect by strapping roller skates onto your hands and knees."

The work was inspired by the poem "Autumn" by Rainer Maria Rilke, and portrays the lines from the poem: "The leaves are falling, falling. . . We are all falling. . . And yet there is one who holds this falling endlessly gently in his hands."

The program will also include Schuman's "Chester Overture for Band," "Trauersinfonie" by Wagner, "Suite of Old American Dances" by Bennett and "Concerto in D minor, Op. 2, No. 11" by Vivaldi, arranged by Cacavas.

The Wind Ensemble will present a "Pops" Concert, their final performance of the school year, on Sunday, April 29.

Gettysburg From The Cupola Of The Seminary Old Dorm

Gettysburg's dimensions have enlarged considerably in the last 90 years as these two photographs show. Today there are more streets, houses and even trees than in the 1890s when the older photograph was made. Yet, clearly, the ageless hills retain their same recognizable outline. The courthouse tower and clock, near the left of each photograph, makes it possible to orient oneself. In the older picture, West Middle Street runs diagonally from left to right where it is bordered by the white rail fence.

Berman also wrote that Goffman "comes closer than any living writer to being the Kafka of our time . . . because he communicates so vividly the horror and anguish—as well as some of the absurd comedy—of everyday life."

The 50-year-old Goffman is a native of Toronto and earned the A.B. from the University of Toronto in 1945. He was awarded the M.A. by the University of Chicago in 1949 and earned the Ph.D. there in 1953.

Goodling Bill To Assist Veterans

Congressman George A. Goodling Thursday introduced a bill that would prevent increases in Social Security benefits from being charged against the pensions received by veterans and the widows of veterans.

"Under present law," Goodling said, an income ceiling is placed on individuals who receive more than one Federal benefit. Because of this, veterans and widows who received the 20 percent increase in Social Security benefits effective January of this year have found their pensions reduced, and in some cases almost eliminated.

"It is my feeling that if an individual is eligible to receive more than one Federal benefit, he should receive 100 percent of these benefits."
